1. Narrative description of the Prop 28 arts education program(s) funded. (2500 character limit).

During the 2024–25 school year, Twin Ridges Home Study (K–8) used Proposition 28 funds to enrich arts education for students in our non-classroom-based charter program. Because most students learn primarily at home with parent–teacher guidance, these funds were vital for delivering high-quality, flexible arts instruction and hands-on experiences. Prop 28 resources supported the purchase of instruments, art supplies, and music instructional materials, enabling students to participate in music, dance, ballet, and visual arts regardless of location. Weekly music classes, private or small-group lessons, and integrated art projects provided enrichment tailored to each student's individualized learning plan. A partnership with Split Rock Music launched the Rock Band program at the Truckee site, where students collaborated while building confidence, creativity, and social skills, fostering a sense of community among families who typically connect only virtually or at occasional gatherings. Throughout the year, teachers and parent educators wove the arts into academic subjects—using music, movement, and visual art to deepen understanding of language arts, history, and science. These opportunities ensure that all Twin Ridges students, regardless of their chosen learning environment, enjoy equitable access to robust arts education that promotes creativity, critical thinking, and social-emotional growth.
